1,000

A Membership Orientation Booklet

A Biblical, Theological & Organizational Framework

*"The least of you will become a thousand, the smallest a mighty nation.
I am the Lord; in its time I will do this swiftly."*

— Isaiah 60:22

Soli Deo Gloria

CHRIST-CENTERED
— COMMUNITY CHURCH —

Introduction

A Word Before You Begin

This booklet exists for one reason: so that you can decide with clarity.

Vision 1,000 is not a program or a membership drive. It is a community being built by Jesus Christ — a company of visible, available disciples whose lives are being shaped by the gospel. Before you join, you deserve to understand what you are joining, why it exists, and what it will ask of you.

This is not a contract. It is an orientation — a window into the convictions, values, and vision that hold CCCC together. Read it carefully. Discuss it with those who know you. Bring your questions.

If, after reading, you recognize the truth behind this vision and sense a calling to belong to this community, then welcome. You are joining something that is not ours — it belongs to Christ, and He is the one building it.

“And I tell you that you are Peter, and on this rock I will build my church, and the gates of Hades will not overcome it.” — Matthew 16:18

The founding leaders of CCCC offer no names here — only a conviction: this vision was planted by God, not conceived by any one of us. What you are reading is our best, stress-tested account of what He has given us to steward.

Read slowly. Pray as you go. And may God grant you wisdom and clarity.

Chapter One

What Is CCCC?

CCCC stands for Christ-Centered Community Church. Every word in that name is deliberate.

The Name and What It Means

CHRIST-CENTERED

The person of Jesus Christ — His life, death, resurrection, and reign — is not one theme among many. He is the center around which everything orbits. Remove Him and nothing holds.

COMMUNITY

CCCC is not a crowd. It is a community — a company of people who know each other's names, carry each other's burdens, and are accountable to one another in the pursuit of Christ.

CHURCH

Not a club, not an NGO, not a movement. A church — the body of Christ, built by Him, belonging to Him, answerable to Him. It exists because He willed it to exist.

COMMUNITY CHURCH

Rooted locally. CCCC is a church planted in a specific place, among specific people, for the glory of God in that place — beginning in Bacolod City, Philippines.

The Vision Statement

"Vision 1,000 is the pursuit of a Christ-centered community of one thousand visible and available disciples whose lives are being transformed by the gospel of Jesus Christ, faithfully cultivating and guarding all that God has entrusted to them, so that Christ may be glorified in them, through them, and beyond them."

This is not a mission statement crafted by a committee. It is a theological description of what CCCC believes it is called to be. Every phrase carries weight:

- "One thousand visible and available disciples" — not spectators, not names on a list, but real people deliberately placing themselves within the community where God works.
- "Lives being transformed by the gospel" — this is not self-improvement. Transformation is what happens when the gospel of Jesus Christ is genuinely encountered and received.
- "Faithfully cultivating and guarding" — these are the ancient words Abad and Shamar (Genesis 2:15). They describe what God originally entrusted to humanity, and what Christ has now freed us to do.
- "So that Christ may be glorified" — the goal is never CCCC's success. The goal is always the glory of God made visible through changed lives.

Chapter Two

Biblical Foundations

CCCC does not build on ideas or cultural trends. It builds on Scripture. Three biblical pillars hold everything together. Remove any one and the structure collapses.

Pillar One: Creation Order — Abad and Shamar

Genesis 2:15 · 2 Corinthians 3:18 · Colossians 1:10

God entrusted humanity with the vocation of cultivating (Abad) and guarding (Shamar) all that He had given — and humanity abandoned it. What Adam failed to keep, Christ came to fulfill. He is the true and faithful image-bearer who cultivated perfectly and guarded completely, all the way to the cross and through it.

Now, by union with Him, those who belong to Christ are being continuously transformed into that same image — from one degree of glory to another (2 Cor. 3:18). Abad and Shamar is therefore not a command reimposed on disciples from the outside. It is the shape of the life Christ has freed us into.

ABAD To Cultivate Working, developing, bringing forth fruitfulness — in every domain God has given us.	SHAMAR To Guard Protecting, preserving, being a faithful steward — of all God has entrusted to us.

Pillar Two: Redemption as Re-Ordering

Psalms 107:35–38

Psalms 107 does not open with a program. It opens with a cry — and then with God answering it. The redeemed are gathered from every direction: from hunger and thirst, from darkness and chains, from affliction, from the crashing sea. What follows is never self-improvement — it is transformation by mercy.

“He turned the desert into pools of water and the parched ground into flowing springs; there he brought the hungry to live, and they founded a city where they could settle. They sowed fields and planted vineyards that yielded a fruitful harvest; he blessed them, and their numbers greatly increased.” — Psalm 107:35–38

This is the vision image for CCCC. A wilderness made fruitful. Hungry people given a city. Fields planted — which means there is work to be done. Harvests yielded — meaning God blesses the work for His own purposes. Numbers multiplied — not through strategy, but through the overflow of divine mercy.

What emerges — order, fruitfulness, a city founded — is not community development. It is doxology: the visible overflow of what God has done in those He has redeemed.

Pillar Three: The Church's Constitution and Commission

Matthew 16:18 · Matthew 28:18–20 · Acts 1:8

- Matthew 16:18 establishes ownership — the church belongs to Christ, and He is its builder.
- Matthew 28:18–20 establishes operation — because all authority belongs to Him, the community He builds is sent: to go, to baptize, to teach obedience to everything He commanded.
- Acts 1:8 names the only sufficient power — not organizational capacity, not vision clarity, but the Holy Spirit.

All framework categories — structure, programs, envisioned schools, planned livelihood — are servants of this commission, never its substitutes.

Chapter Three

What CCCC Believes It Is Doing

Before any program, any structure, any number — CCCC operates from a set of theological convictions. These are not aspirations. They are the load-bearing walls.

A Doxological Event, Not an Organizational Achievement

Matthew 16:18 · Revelation 7:9–10 · Colossians 1:10 · Hebrews 12:2

When Vision 1,000 is realized, it will only be a testimony and a witness of God's glory. The 1,000 is not a trophy — it is a community of a thousand transformed lives. Not an organizational achievement, but a doxological event: a glimpse, here and now, of the great multitude from every nation that will one day worship together before the throne of God (Rev. 7:9–10).

The 1,000 is a number manifesting the power of the gospel as unstoppable. It places the church firmly on the offensive — not gathered into a defended fortress, but advancing. Every transformed life is a data point in God's case against despair and unbelief. Together, a thousand such lives become an argument impossible to ignore.

The goal was never institutional success. The goal was always the glory of God made visible through changed lives — disciples loving one another, abiding in Christ, living worthy of the Lord in every good work. CCCC, if it succeeds, will have nothing to show for itself that is its own. Everything will belong to the one who built it.

The Conviction Behind Community: Love

John 13:35 · John 15:4–5

The love that CCCC is called to embody is not a program or a culture initiative — it is the direct fruit of abiding in Christ.

“Remain in me, as I also remain in you. No branch can bear fruit by itself; it must remain in the vine. Neither can you bear fruit unless you remain in me... apart from me you can do nothing.” — John 15:4–5

This abiding is the root. The love visible to the world is the fruit. CCCC's community life is the natural overflow evidence that its people are truly abiding in Christ. The only sustainable love is abiding love.

“By this everyone will know that you are my disciples, if you love one another.” — John 13:35

Divine Initiative and Human Response

1 Corinthians 3:5–7 · Ephesians 2:10 · Hebrews 11:6

CCCC operates in the space between two realities that must never be collapsed into each other:

GOD'S INITIATIVE

- The Lord builds the church (Matt. 16:18)
- Christ's love compels us (2 Cor. 5:14)
- The Spirit empowers (Acts 1:8)
- Christ perfects and finishes (Heb. 12:2)
- We are His workmanship (Eph. 2:10)

OUR RESPONSE

- Faith as complete dependence (Heb. 11:6)
- Obedience to His teaching (Matt. 28:20)
- Abad & Shamar as lived freedom (Gen. 2:15)
- A selfless life beyond self (Col. 1:10)
- Joy in trials; steadfastness (James 1:2–4)

No Named Founder: A Structural Theological Conviction

1 Corinthians 3:5–7 · Hebrews 10:24–25

The anonymity of CCCC's founding leaders is not humility performed — it is a structural theological stance against personality-driven church culture. CCCC's founders are identified not by name but by disposition: those who loved the Lord, kept meeting together, and agreed in humility that this vision was planted by God — not conceived by any one of them. It becomes an avenue, an active pursuit for humility, of denying oneself and not allowing individuality to take root and form, avoiding potential egoistic concerns for the future.

Chapter Four

How CCCC Forms People

Formation is the irreducible work. Everything else — programs, numbers, structures — is scaffolding. The building is people becoming like Christ.

Visible and Available Disciples

Matthew 28:19–20 · Hebrews 10:24–25

Vision 1,000 does not count attendees or spectators. It seeks visible and available disciples — those who deliberately place themselves within the ordinary means through which God works: His Word, His people, prayer, fellowship, teaching, correction, encouragement, and service.

The church's responsibility is to faithfully create the conditions where people may continually encounter Christ. Your responsibility, as a member, is to place yourself in those conditions — consistently, deliberately, and with an open heart.

The Overflow Model

Colossians 3:16 · John 21:15–17 · John 13:35

Discipleship flows from the inside out:

- Personal devotion to Jesus overflows into community life.
- Community life overflows into the world.
- The love that marks CCCC is not manufactured warmth — it is the overflow of abiding in Christ, made visible in how members genuinely care for one another, and ultimately unmistakable to those outside.

Two Tracks: Spiritual and Practical

Ephesians 4:28 · Proverbs 3:5–6 · 1 Timothy 4:7

Elders oversee spiritual formation. Deacons oversee practical formation. The two tracks are not parallel programs — they are a single integrated life. Practical wisdom is never severed from its theological root (that's why we have the book of Proverbs), and theological conviction is always tested in its practical expression (that's why we have the book of James).

The 1,000 as a Discipleship Boundary

Exodus 18:21–22 · Proverbs 27:17 · Revelation 7:9–10

The limit of 1,000 creates manageable shepherding: every member known, every soul accountable, every gift locatable. The 1,000 is not a membership ceiling — it is a discipleship boundary, a safeguard against ungovernable scale where genuine formation becomes very challenging if not impossible.

The boundary is also theological: large enough to be a visible, compelling witness — small enough to remain a real community where names are known. At the threshold, the vision does not end. It multiplies. The ceiling becomes a womb.

Chapter Five

Answering the How of Ephesians 4:28 and Galatians 2:10

Ephesians 4:28 · Galatians 2:10 · Proverbs 22:29 · Proverbs 14:23 · Ecclesiastes 9:10

“Anyone who has been stealing must steal no more, but must work, doing something useful with their own hands, that they may have something to share with those in need.” — Ephesians 4:28

This single verse contains a complete theology of economic transformation in three movements:

STOP	WORK	SHARE
True repentance — not behavior management, but the response of a heart encountered by Christ. 2 Cor. 5:17 · Rom. 6:1–4	Dignified, skillful labor as worship. Not hustle for survival but stewardship before God. Prov. 22:29 · Ecc. 9:10 · Col. 3:23	Giving from the overflow of Christ's love received. Those equipped become equippers. 1 John 4:19 · 2 Cor. 9:7

Without the finished work of Christ, Stop produces only guilt, Work produces only pride, and Share produces only performance. It is Christ's atoning work that enables true repentance, His resurrection that empowers reverent labor, and the overflow of His love — not obligation — that makes genuine sharing possible.

“All they asked was that we should continue to remember the poor, the very thing I had been eager to do all along.” — Galatians 2:10

Community Livelihood Programs

CCCC's deacons do not run programs — they cultivate an ecology of dignified work and generous care, shaped by the Word, accountable to the community, measured by whether members grow toward Christ-sustaining fruitfulness rather than structural dependency. Below are some examples of what the community can do but not limited by it. The root for the programs below is still what matters the most.

● Skills and Vocational Training

Proverbs 22:29 · Exodus 35:31–32

Sewing, carpentry, welding, electronics, baking — taught within the community. Excellence in craft glorifies God. Bezalel was filled with the Spirit for skilled work; so may every member be.

● Agricultural and Urban Gardens

Psalms 107:37 · Genesis 2:15

Community plots, container gardens, collective farming. Food security for member families. Surplus distributed to widows and the poor.

- Microenterprise and Livelihood Capital

Ephesians 4:28 · Proverbs 31:16

Seed capital, community loan pools, and business mentoring for members beginning micro-businesses. Capital given is always paired with accountability.

- Digital Work and Remote Pathways

Colossians 3:23 · Proverbs 13:4

Equipping members for freelance writing, virtual assistance, graphic design, and other remote disciplines — generating income without geographic displacement of the family.

The Multiplier Principle

2 Corinthians 9:10 · 2 Timothy 2:2

Every program is designed with replication in mind. Those who receive training eventually train others. The goal is an ecosystem of dignified work and mutual care — sustained by Christ's people, not by external charity.

Care for the Vulnerable

Galatians 2:10 · Matthew 25:40 · Acts 6:1–7

Deacons coordinate care for widows, the elderly, the sick, and families in acute crisis — meals, medicine, transportation, and financial support from community funds. This is Shamar made concrete.

Chapter Six

School Vision: Forming Minds, Equipping Leaders

“These are not to be hidden from their children; we will tell the next generation the praiseworthy deeds of the Lord, his power, and the wonders he has done.” — Psalm 78:4

The CCCC School Vision holds academic, theological, and leadership formation together as one integrated work — the church passing the faith, in its fullness, to the next generation.

Track A Formal K–12 & Alternative Learning Center

Christ-centered basic education integrating academic excellence with Scripture, character formation, and biblical worldview. Where formal K–12 is beyond capacity, an ALC provides a recognized pathway.

- Core academics within a biblical framework
- Character and virtue woven into curriculum
- ALC pathway for out-of-school youth and adults
- Teachers drawn from qualified CCCC members

Track B Theological & Biblical Training School

Non-formal theological education for all members — grounding the community in Scripture, sound doctrine, church history, and hermeneutics. The common inheritance of every disciple, not reserved for clergy.

- Systematic Bible survey across both Testaments
- Hermeneutics: how to handle Scripture faithfully
- Theology of Abad & Shamar across six life domains
- Christological foundations of Vision 1,000
- Church history and apologetics

Track C Elder Formation & Leadership Equipping

A formation crucible for Elders and emerging leaders. Character precedes role. Those who complete this track are not graduates — they are men and women proven by time, tested by trial, trusted by the community.

- 1 Timothy 3 and Titus 1 character pathway
- Preaching, teaching, and pastoral care practicum
- Biblical counseling principles
- Conflict resolution and accountability
- Mentoring by senior Elders

Track D Sending School — Pre-Deployment Formation

Activates as the community approaches its multiplication threshold. Prepares leaders and families for planting a new community — covering missiology, pioneer hardship, and the theology of sending.

- Theology of sending — biblical missiology (Acts 13)
- Pioneer community formation principles
- Cultural intelligence and contextual ministry
- Spiritual warfare and resilience in isolation
- Accountability between sending and sent communities

The Integration Principle: One School, Four Gates

Ephesians 4:11–13 · 2 Timothy 3:16–17

A child formed in Track A enters Track B as a young adult. A theologically formed member is identified for Track C. A proven elder enters Track D when the sending season arrives. The school is not a department of the church — it is the church's generation-spanning work of equipping every member.

Track B begins first. Tracks A, C, and D follow in sequence as the community reaches capacity and spiritual maturity to sustain them.

Chapter Seven

How CCCC Is Organized

Every structural choice CCCC makes encodes a theological conviction — about power, about people, about who the church ultimately belongs to.

Leadership Structure

Facilitating Pastor	Unifies Elders and Deacons. Fulltime. Rotates to Elder/Deacon role after a set number of years — preventing permanent top authority. Sabbatical provision allowed.
12 Elders	Ministers of the Word. Responsible for prayer, teaching, shepherding, and counsel. Ideally fulltime. Hold spiritual oversight of the congregation.
12 Deacons	Servants of the people. A maximum of four fulltime. Responsible for practical needs, livelihood programs, and community care.
Members — Vision 1,000	Ages 21–60 are counted toward the 1,000. Those 65 and older are honored beneficiaries and active teachers of the next generation (Titus 2:2–5).

Anti-Institutionalization Mechanisms

Mark 10:42–45 · 1 Peter 5:3

CCCC builds structural safeguards against the very tendencies that corrupt churches:

- The Pastor's rotation prevents permanent top authority from resting with one person.
- Anonymous founding prevents personality cults — no single name holds the vision.
- The 1,000 ceiling prevents an ungovernable scale where pastoral care becomes hard if not impossible.

Each of these is a structural expression of a theological conviction: no leader lords it over the flock. These are built in the framework, not merely aspirational.

Divided Responsibilities

1 Corinthians 3:6–7

The church remains responsible for faithfulness. God remains responsible for transformation. This theological division of labor prevents both passivity and pride. CCCC plants and waters. The increase belongs to God alone.

Chapter Eight

Growth Phases and Leadership Dynamics

Numbers measure the container, not the content. Below may not reflect the actual but they are still useful markers — they tell the community when to expect new structures, new responsibilities, and new thresholds of care.

1–12	Seed	A house church. No formal structure — only leaders identified by disposition, not title. The vision is cast, received, and prayed over. Character before anything else.
13–40	Roots	Informal but intentional. Elders are bi-vocational. One or two Deacons begin serving practically. Discipleship rhythms are established. Character comes before title.
41–100	Early Growth	The first fulltime pastoral or elder role is prayerfully considered. Financial accountability is established. Deacon teams form around specific practical needs.
101–200	Established Growth	The first fulltime role is warranted and affirmed — not assumed. Elder plurality is reinforced. Deacon teams are active. Discipleship groups deepen.
201–600	Maturity	Multiple fulltime Elders. Practical community programs become sustainable. The school vision enters prayer and planning. First multiplication conversations begin.
601–1,000	Sending	The community approaches its limit. Leaders formed within it are identified, affirmed, and sent out. The ceiling becomes the womb.

What CCCC Measures — and Why

Numbers are not the goal. But what gets measured gets tended. CCCC tracks six categories:

- Membership progress toward 1,000 — and threshold for multiplication decisions.
- Discipleship depth — Bible study attendance, discipleship groups, baptisms, and visible growth in obedience.
- Community overflow — families served, vocational trainees, widows, orphans and elderly supported.
- Leadership pipeline — Elders-in-formation, active Deacons, and the number of leaders sent to new communities.
- Financial stewardship — treasurer and auditor reports, ratio of community care to operational spending.
- Steadfastness — trial testimonies; retained faith under difficulty; love visible to outsiders.

The church remains responsible for faithfulness. God remains responsible for transformation.

1 Corinthians 3:6–7

Chapter Nine

Sending as Love, Not Loss

The 1,000 is not a wall. It is a womb. When the community approaches its limit, it does not contract — it reproduces. This is not the end of Vision 1,000. It is its deepest logic completed.

The Logic of the Limit

Acts 13:1–3 · Isaiah 60:22

Leaders formed within the Vision 1,000 ecology are identified, affirmed, and commissioned — exactly as the church at Antioch sent Paul and Barnabas. Isaiah 60:22 is not merely a cover verse; it is the eschatological logic beneath the multiplication mandate.

Full Independence with Open Hands

Galatians 2:9–10 · Philippians 1:3–5 · Romans 14:5

Sent-out communities are fully independent — no structural authority retained by CCCC over them. They may follow the Vision 1,000 pattern or discern their own form under the Spirit's leading; both are held loosely.

This is not indifference — it is theological conviction. The Spirit works variously (1 Cor. 12:4–6), and a tested pattern is a gift offered, never a law enforced. Support that demands compliance is not support. Structure that cannot release is not sending — it is franchising.

What Carries Forward

2 Timothy 2:2 · Colossians 2:6–7 · 1 Corinthians 13:1–3

What CCCC exports is not a model but people — men and women rooted in Christ, trained in Abad and Shamar, marked by the Great Commission.

The relationship that continues between a sending community and those it has sent is not built on mutual benefit, civil peace, or shared comfort. All of these things may be present and none of it is wrong — but none of them are the foundation.

“The only foundation that outlasts every organizational structure, every geographical distance, every difference in form and method, is the love of Christ — received, not generated.”

What was built together was built by His grace. What continues is sustained by His love. What is sent is sent in His name. If that foundation is removed, the relationship becomes a network. And a network, however useful, is not the Body of Christ.

“And over all these virtues put on love, which binds them all together in perfect unity.”—

Colossians 3:14

Chapter Ten

What It Means to Become a Member

Membership in CCCC is not the purchase of a service. It is the acceptance of a vocation — a calling to be a visible and available disciple within this particular community, in this particular place, for the glory of God.

Who Is a Member?

A member of CCCC is someone who:

- Has encountered the gospel of Jesus Christ and is living in visible response to it.
- Deliberately places themselves within the community's rhythms — Word, prayer, fellowship, correction, and service.
- Is known by name, known by the elders, and accountable within a discipleship group.
- Is between the ages of 21 and 60 (counted toward Vision 1,000). Those 65 and older serve as honored teachers and beneficiaries.
- Understands and affirms the theological foundations and values of this booklet.

What Membership Asks of You

Joining CCCC is not a transaction. It is a commitment — to show up, to be known, to serve, and to grow. Specifically:

SPIRITUAL COMMITMENTS

- Regular participation in gathered worship and teaching
- Enrollment in Track B — Biblical and Theological Training
- Active participation in a discipleship group
- Openness to pastoral oversight, correction, and care

PRACTICAL COMMITMENTS

- Participation in at least one livelihood or service program
- Financial stewardship and giving as an act of worship
- Active contribution to the care of others within the community
- Accountability in one's work, business, or employment

What Membership Gives You

Membership in CCCC is not a duty imposed — it is a grace entered. Within this community you will find:

- A community that knows your name and will not leave you to struggle alone.
- Theological formation that roots you in the Word and anchors your life to Christ.

- Practical support — livelihood, skills, microenterprise, digital work — for you and your family.
- Pastoral care: elders who pray for you, speak the truth to you, and shepherd your soul.
- A sending culture: if God calls you out, CCCC will commission you and hold the relationship with open hands.
- A glimpse of the great multitude — a foretaste here and now of what God is building toward eternity.

Honest Word About What Membership Is Not

Joining CCCC does not come with a guarantee of a better life. There is no promise of an elevated lifestyle, no assurance that circumstances will improve, no prosperity attached to your name on this list. What membership does promise — and what it will keep — is a community. A community that will not let you settle for less than Christ. One that will push you, consistently and without apology, toward a life that finds its sufficiency in Him alone. A community that reframes your life as a stewardship—reminding you that your time, talents, and resources are not possessions to be hoarded, but trusts to be managed for His glory and poured out for others. And when trials come, as they will, this community will not hand you easy answers. It will sit with you, pray with you, and keep the fire of your faith from going out. That is what you are joining. Not a shortcut. A furnace — and a family.

The Question This Booklet Is Asking You

After reading this, one question remains:

“Do you recognize the truth of this vision? And do you sense a calling to belong to this community?”

If yes — welcome. If not yet — pray, discuss, and return with your questions. The door is open. The community is not in a hurry. We are building something that belongs to Christ, and He is not rushed.

But if you do come — come fully. Come as someone who understands what they are joining. Come knowing that this community will push you, form you, correct you, and carry you. Come ready to be known.

Soli Deo Gloria — Glory to God alone.

CCCC · VISION 1,000

Christ-Centered Community Church · Bacolod City, Philippines

“For no one can lay any foundation other than the one already laid, which is Jesus Christ.” — 1 Cor. 3:11

Soli Deo Gloria
